Does it list?

Snow Dockser, L. (1989) Mothers in Children's Museums: A neglected dynamic

Thirteen roles:

1. Follower
 1. "Her responsibility was to help him find answers to his questions, take turns with other children, treat other visitors appropriately, and protect him from harm."
 2. Children get to choose the activities, parents follow
2. Time Keeper
 1. Controlling the pacing of the visit (are you sure you don't want to explore this room more? Should we move on to the bank?)
3. Visit Facilitator
 1. Aimed to insure a child's successful access to and manipulation of the environment.
 2. Can take many forms
 1. Backing off and allowing discovery
 2. Directing attention
 3. Slowing down the pace
 4. Reinforcing excitement
 5. Encouraging observation rather than just action

Feedback is a gift!

Initial Development

- Worked closely with courses + SDS
- A lot of effort in aligning the depth of the notes generated with what most courses need
- Ensuring that faculty have the core controls that they need to be able to release and distribute content

V2+

- Expanding the tools faculty have to easily deliver their notes in a format and way that works for their course (files, other note types)
- Exploring the possibility of extracting information from handwritten notes
- Other
