You've thought of me. What next?

I'm an idea.

Talk to your IT leader, who will assess me and create a project initiation form.

Now, others start noticing me.

The Project Management Office helps guide me.

I'll get passed on to relevant councils.

Then the Strategy Team prioritizes me and compares me to other ideas and projects.

There are many opportunities for input along the way, and decision making is highly transparent.

And let us make an impact around campus.

So the next time you're talking about ideas in the hallway... adopt one of us!
